the National Security Division of the New York Office of the FBI, and the world's foremost expert on Islamic terrorism and Osama Bin Laden's terror network. John Patrick O'Neill, Sr. was killed in the attacks on the World Trade Center.

2. John Patrick O'Neill, Sr. became Chief of Security for the World Trade Center less than two weeks prior to the September 11th attacks. On the morning of September 11, 2001, John Patrick O'Neill Sr. was in his office on the 34th Floor in the South Tower, Tower 2, at the time the first plane hit the North Tower, Tower 1. He immediately left his office and headed to the lobby of the North Tower to determine what had happened, and to assess the damage. A command post was set up in the lobby of the North Tower from where he was able to direct the rescue efforts of the first responders. When the second plane hit the South Tower, he returned there to coordinate the rescue efforts in that building, and was killed when that building collapsed.

3. On the morning of September 11, 2001, Mohammed Atta, Abdul Alomari, Wail al-Shehri, Waleed al-Shehri, and Satam al-Suqami hijacked American Airlines flight 11, bound from Boston to Los Angeles, and crashed it into the North Tower (Tower One) of the World Trade Center in New York.

4. On the morning of September 11, 2001, Marwan al-Sheehhi, Fayez Ahmed a/k/a/ Bamihammad Fayez, Ahmed al-Ghamdi, Hazma al- Ghamdi, and Molahd al-Shehri hijacked United Airlines Flight 175, bound from Boston to Los Angeles, and crashed it into the South Tower (Tower Two) of the World Trade Center in New York.

5. On the morning of September 11, 2001, Khalid al-Midhar, Nawalf al-Hazmi, Salem al-Hazmi, Hani Hanjour, and Majed Moqed a/k/a Majed Moqed hijacked

American Airlines Flight 77, bound from Dulles Airport in Sterling, Virginia, to Los Angeles, California and crashed it into the Pentagon in Arlington, Virginia.

6. On September 11, 2001, Zihad Jarrah, Ahmed Al-Haznawi, Saeed Al-Ghamdi, and Ahmed al-Nami hijacked United Airlines Flight 93, bound from Newark, New Jersey to San Francisco, California with the intention of crashing that plane into either the United States Capitol building or the White House. In a heroic act of defiance and courage, the passengers of Flight 93 overtook the hijackers, and the plane crashed in Shanksville, Pennsylvania prior to reaching its target in Washington, D.C.

7. All nineteen (19) hijackers were members of Osama Bin Laden's Al Qaeda network. All received sponsorship, funding and training through the Al Qaeda network.

Some of the businesses, banks and charities operate legitimately but also maintain a secret dual role as Al Qaeda front organizations and actively support its terrorist activities. Some of those organizations are purely a sham front for Al Qaeda.

39. Defendant Imad Mughniyeh, a Palestinian who operates directly on behalf of Iranian intelligence, is regarded as the mastermind of Hezbollah kidnappings, suicide bombings and violent airplane hiackings.

40. Defendant Dr. Ayman al Zawahiri is leader of the Egyptian Islamic Jihad and Bin Laden's second in command. American and Israeli intelligence have named both him and defendant Imad Mughinyeh, as one of the masterminds behind the September 11, 2001 attacks.

41. Defendants Saddam Hussein, the Estate of Qusay Hussein, the Estate of Uday Hussein, Husham Hussein, Tahya Yassin Ramadan, Muhammed Madhi Salah, Faruq Al-Hijazi, Salah Suleiman, Ahmed Khalil Ibrahim Samir al-Ani, Habib Faris Adullah al-Mamouri, Abdel Hussein, a/k/a "The Ghost," Osama Bin Laden, Saad Bin Laden, Haqui Ismail, Taha Al Alwani, Abu Agab, and Abu Waiel, Osama Bin Laden, Imad Mughniyeh, Hezbollah Secretary General Hassan Nasrallah, Iranian Supreme Leader Ayatollah Ali Khamenei, Usbat al-Ansar, Ahmad Vahedi, Hossein Mosleh, Morteza Reza'i, Salah Hajir and Adib Sha'ban a/k/a Adeeb Shabaan, Hezbollah a/k/a Hizballah, Iranian Minister of Intelligence and Security Ali Fallahian, Iranian Revolutionary Guard Corps Deputy Commander Brig General Mohammad Baqer Zolqadr, and John Does 1-67 are natural persons (or the personal representatives of their estates), subjects and citizens of Iraq and leaders, officials, agents/or employees of Iraq and/or its Intelligence Agency or other agents or instrumentalities of Iraq and/or are natural persons, subjects and citizens of Iran and leaders, officials, agents/or employees of Iran and/or its Intelligence Agency or other agents or instrumentalities of Iran and/or are natural persons (or the personal representatives of their estates), organizations, banks, and charities located all over the world, who participated in the acts and conspiracy described below, in their individual capacities and while acting in the course and scope of their employment. and/or who conspired with Osama Bin Laden, Al Qaeda, Hezbollah, Iran, and the Taliban to raise, launder, transfer, distribute, and hide funds for Bin Laden and Al Qaeda in order to support and finance their terrorist activities including, but not limited to, the September 11th attacks. Some of the businesses, banks and charities operate legitimately but also maintain a secret dual role as front organizations for Hezbollah and Al Qaeda and actively support its terrorist activities. Some of those organizations are purely a sham front for Hezbollah and Al Qaeda.

42. In a similar fashion, some of the individual Defendants operate apparently legitimate businesses, while maintaining a secret dual role as Hezbollah and Al Qaeda operatives, and others are full-fledged members of Hezbollah and Al Qaeda who operate openly.

43. Defendants Al Taqwa and Nada Management Organization are banks who had their origin in the late 1980's, during which time the leaders of the Muslim Brotherhood formed financial management firms and banks called "Al Taqwa" ("Fear of God"), that were dedicated to the overthrow of Western nations, and the creation of a worldwide Islamic government. Headquartered in Lugano, Switzerland, with branches in Italy, Algeria, Liechtenstein, Malta, Panama and the Bahamas, they consist of the Al Taqwa Bank, Al Taqwa Management Organization SA, Al Taqwa Trade, Property and Industry, Ltd. and The Asat Trust.

44. Upon information and belief, the Al Taqwa Defendants have financed and laundered money for Arab and Islamic political and militant groups including the Algerian Armed Islamic Group (GIA) and the Egyptian Gala'a al-Islamiya, Islamic terrorist groups with links to Bin Laden and his Al Qaeda organization. Additionally, international investigations indicate that Al-Taqwa facilitated the movement of Bin Laden's money around the world in the late 1990's, a task made easier because its complex structure was designed to prevent scrutiny of its operations.

45. The Al Taqwa Defendants were founded by Defendant Yousef M. Nada, and its other principals are Defendants Ali G. Himmat, Ahmed Huber and Mohamed Mansour. Defendants Huber and Mansour are senior members of the Muslim Brotherhood.

46. Defendant Al Taqwa Bank is part of Defendant Al Taqwa Trade, Property and Industry Company which is located in Vaduz, Liechtenstein. This entity is also known as Himmat Establishment, run by a partner of Nada who, like Nada, is a member of the Egyptian Islamic Brotherhood. Although Egyptian-born, Mr. Nada is a naturalized citizen of Italy. Mr. Nada also is a member of Jamaa al-Islamiya, which is directly allied to Al Qaeda through Dr. Ayman al Zawahiri, second in command to Osama Bin Laden.

47. Shortly after dual U.S. Embassy bombings in Kenya and Tanzania by Al Qaeda in 1998, U.S. intelligence agencies tracked telephone contact between Al Taqwa, members of Bin Laden's inner circle, and Albert "Ahmed" Huber, a convert to Islam in the 1960's who has publicly expressed support for Al Qaeda. Huber has acknowledged that Ahmad I. Nasreddin, a/k/a Hadj Ahmed Nasreddin, a/k/a Ahmed Idriss Nasreddin, is, in fact, an Al Taqwa founding member and bank shareholder who was very active in financing and operating the Islamic Cultural Institute of Milan, which follows the violent teachings of convicted terrorist Omar Abdul Rahman. The Institute was frequently visited by known Al Qaeda terrorists. Upon information and belief, the Institute is known in Western intelligence communities as one of the main Al Qaeda stations in Europe and was used to move weapons, men, and money around the world. After September 11, 2001, Al Taqwa changed its name to the Nada Management Organization SA in an attempt to avoid scrutiny. Al Taqwa and the Nada group, as well as their four principals – Nada, Himmat, Huber, and Mansour, have had their assets frozen and are believed by the U.S. Department of Justice to be co-conspirators of Al Qaeda.

48. Defendant Schreiber & Zindel of Vaduz, Liechtenstein, is a legal entity involved in money laundering activities on behalf of Al Qaeda and Al Taqwa Bank, according to documents from the Government of Liechtenstein. Upon information and belief, revenues from the sale of Iraqi oil under the United Nation's food-for-oil program were laundered to help finance Al Qaeda. Laundering activity, undertaken with the knowledge of Iraqi officials including Defendant the late Uday Hussein, the eldest son of Saddam Hussein, was undertaken through many of the same middlemen in Switzerland, Liechtenstein, and Italy that administered funds on behalf of sanctioned Al Taqwa bank and other fiduciaries associated with the Muslim Brotherhood.

49. Defendant Asat Trust Reg. of Baduz, Liechtenstein, is another money laundering organization whose assets were frozen after the events of September 11, 2001. Defendant Yousef M. Nada founded and operated Asat Trust Reg. Defendants Martin Wachter and Erwin Wachter of the Defendant firm Sercor Treuhand Anstalt based in Liechtenstein, represented Asat Trust Reg.

50. Upon information and belief, Defendants Martin Wachter, Erwin Wachter, and Schreiber and Zindel engaged in money laundering on behalf of Al Taqwa and Al Qaeda. Their assets have not been frozen by the United States after the events of September 11, 2001.

51. Defendant Barzan e-Tikriti is Defendant Saddam Hussein's half-brother and the former finance chief for Saddam Hussein's private financial empire. For twenty years, e-Tikriti ran Hussein's network from Lugano, Switzerland while simultaneously acting as Iraq's chief delegate to the United Nations' local Swiss headquarters. Upon information and belief, Defendant e-Tikriti laundered money through the Swiss bank Defendant Banca del Gottardo and through the holding company, Mediterranean Enterprises Development Projects (MEDP), moving approximately five billion dollars annually from Switzerland to offshore companies in Liechtenstein, Panama and the Bahamas, and eventually transferred some of those funds to the Al Qaeda network. In addition, e-Tikriti used a Swiss metallurgy firm, Defendant Metalor, to store and transform gold into gold bars, which were then sold for currency. Upon information and belief, Defendant Hussein's financial network was utilized to support Al Qaeda and the terrorism network.

52. Following its defeat in the 1991 Gulf War, Iraq's approach to dealing with the United States was to resort to terrorism. To achieve its goals, Iraq associated with various terrorist groups. One was the Iranian opposition group Mujahideen-e-Khalq (MEK), that had ties to Ramzi Yousef, who had entered New York in 1992 using an Iraqi passport, and was later convicted in the 1993 World Trade Center bombing. The MEK reportedly also assisted Osama Bin Laden. The MEK reportedly assisted Osama Bin Laden's escape to Eastern Iran after the attacks of September 11, 2001. Eastern Iran is controlled by a Sunni Muslim enclave that was under heavy Iraqi influence.

53. Ramzi Yousef also gave Iraq a channel to Defendant Khalid Sheikh Mohammed who is a high level Al Qaeda operative and Yousef's uncle. Defendant Mohammed is regarded to be the mastermind of the 1993 World Trade Center bombing and the September 11th attacks as well. Iraq maintained a direct link to Al Qaeda and Khalid Sheikh Mohammed through Ramzi Yousef.

54. A direct link between Iran and the joint activities of Hezbollah and Al Qaeda is the Al-Taqwa bank of Switzerland and Liechtenstein. The link primarily is through Ahmad Huber-El Biali (aka Ahmed Huber). Huber is a principal shareholder of Al-Taqwa bank which was sanctioned by the U.S. government for helping to finance Al Qaeda. Since 1983, Huber has repeatedly visited Iran. In 1988, Huber first met Youssef Nada in Iran. Nada, an Egyptian belongs to the Muslim Brotherhood. Like Nada, Huber embraced the Muslim Brotherhood. At a conference in Iran in 1988, Nada asked Huber to participate in the founding of al-Taqwa. Al-Taqwa bank has been a funding source for activities involving Hamas, which has received direct funding from Iran. Hamas, an outgrowth of Palestinian Muslim Brotherhood founder Abdullah Azzam, is closely associated with Hezbollah. Azzam, along with Osama bin Laden, were cofounders of the Maktab al-Khidamir (MAK), a precursor to Al Qaeda. Iran is known to have appointed Hezbollah's terrorist chief, Imad Mughniyeh as coordinator of Iran's activities with the Hamas and the Palestinian Islamic Jihad in Lebanon.

55. Defendant Asat Trust Reg. of Baduz, Liechtenstein, is another money laundering organization whose assets were frozen after the events of September 11, 2001. Defendant Youssef M. Nada founded and operated Asat Trust Reg.

56. Defendant Abu Musab Zarqawi is a senior Al Qaeda member who escaped through Iran to Iraq following the U.S. attack on Afghanistan. While in Iraq, Zarqawi received medical attention in Baghdad where he remained to recuperate for several months. During the months Zarqawi remained in Iraq, he was protected and shielded from U.S. government efforts to arrest him by the Iraqi regime.

57. Defendant Zarqawi was also a leader of the Ansar al-Islam which operated in Northern Iraq to assist the Iraqi regime in going after Kurdish dissidents. Defendant Abu Waiel was a senior Iraq Intelligence agent who, along with Defendant Zarqawi, operated the Ansar al-Islam camp.

58. Defendant The Muslim Brotherhood numbers some 70 branches around the world. Defendant Egyptian Islamic Jihad is part of the Egyptian branch of the Muslim Brotherhood, to which most of the September 11th hijackers belonged. Defendant Mohammad Atta belonged to three professional engineering associations controlled by the Muslim Brotherhood. Defendants Mohammad Zammar and Mouman Darkazanli were two Al Qaeda operatives who belonged to the Syrian Branch of the Muslim Brotherhood, and who directed the Al Qaeda cell in Hamburg, Germany. Both Zammar and Darkazanli were closely associated with Atta. Zammar was Atta's mentor and is credited with recruiting Atta into Al Qaeda. Defendant Khalid Mohammed is known to have met with Defendant Atta in Hamburg, Germany.

59. The relationship of the Syrian Muslim Brotherhood members with Osama Bin Laden and later Al Qaeda goes back more than 20 years. Over the years, Osama Bin Laden and his brother Mahrous have provided financial assistance to the Syrian Muslim Brotherhood.

60. The Syrian Muslim Brotherhood was established to undermine the regime of the late Syrian President Hafez al-Assad. During the 1980's Iraq worked with the Syrian Muslim Brotherhood, a group with intellectual leanings similar to Al Qaeda, against the regime of Syria's President Assad. The Baath party, secular in nature, was the ruling party of both Syria's President Assad and Iraqi President Saddam Hussein. Despite the Muslim Brotherhood's antipathy toward Baath secularism, Iraqi support for the Syrian Muslim Brotherhood continued until the end of the Saddam Hussein's regime in April 2003. As such, Iraqi support of the Hamburg cell comprising the September 11th hijackers flowed to their Syrian Muslim Brotherhood backers, all of whom belonged to Al Qaeda. Defendants Farooq Hijazi and Ma'Amouri, members of the Iraqi Intelligence Agency, frequently met with Defendant Atta in Hamburg. In effect, Mohammed Atta, through his close connections to Iraqi intelligence and his activities as a conduit of information and funding, became an agent of the Iraqi Intelligence Agency.

61. Defendant Abu Sayyaf was founded more than a decade ago with help from Jamal Mohammad Khalifa, a brother-in-law of Al Qaeda leader Osama Bin Laden.

62. Defendants John Does 1-67 are other officials, employees, and/or agents of the Republic of Iraq or of the Islamic Republic of Iran, or others, whose identities are presently unknown, who performed acts that resulted in acts of terrorism, including the actions relating to the attacks on the World Trade Center on September 11, 2001 which caused the extrajudicial killing of Plaintiffs' decedent John Patrick O'Neill, Sr. Defendants John Does 1-67 acted as agents, performed acts within the scope of their office, employment and/or agency, within the meaning of 28 U.S.C. § 1605 note, which caused the extrajudicial killings described below.

COMMON FACTUAL ALLEGATIONS RELEVANT TO ALL OF THE COUNTS OF THE COMPLAINT.

63. The horrific events of September 11th were the result of a world-wide terror conspiracy against the United States involving Defendants Saddam Hussein, the Estate of Qusay Hussein, the Estate of Uday Hussein, Husham Hussein, Tahya Yassin Ramadan, Muhammed Madhi Salah, Faruq Al-Hijazi, Salah Suleiman, Ahmed Khalil Ibrahim Samir al-Ani, Habib Faris Adullah al-Mamouri, Abdel Hussein, a/k/a "The Ghost," Osama Bin Laden, Saad Bin Laden, Haqui Ismail, Taha Al Alwani, Abu Agab, and Abu Waiel, Osama Bin Laden, The Al Qaeda Islamic Agency, Egyptian Islamic Jihad, Abu Sayyaf, Hamsiraji Sali, Abu Musab Zarqawi, Abu Zubaydh, Khalid Sheikh Mohammed, Abu Abdul Rahman, Al Jazeera, Mohammed Jasmin al-Ali, Schreiber &

Adeeb Shabaan), and John Does 1-67, who have conspired for many years to attack the United States and murder United States' citizens. Defendants supported, conspired, aided and abetted, sponsored, planned and executed the September 11th terror attacks that killed thousands of people and injured many thousands more.

64. Iraq has sworn revenge against the United States since 1992 for Iraq's humiliating defeat in the Persian Gulf War. Since Iraq could not defeat the U.S. Military, it resorted to terror attacks on U.S. citizens. In order to avoid another confrontation with U.S. military forces, Iraq contracted with or sponsored Islamic fundamentalists who were willing to commit terrorist attacks on Iraq's behalf. Indeed, in 1993, Iraqi agents tried to destroy the World Trade Center by planting a bomb in the World Trade Center parking garage.

65. For many years, Al Qaeda wanted to drive the United States from the Arabian Peninsula, topple Middle Eastern governments supported by the United States, including Egypt and Israel, and create an Islamic empire based upon its narrow interpretation of the Koran. Over the years, Al Qaeda has grown, as it absorbed or became allied with other like-minded Islamic terrorist groups, including the Egyptian Islamic Jihad.

66. Over the past 10 years, Iraq's leadership, Iran's Leadership and Al Qaeda shared a virulent hatred of the United States.

67. As early as 1992, Al Qaeda terrorists established close working relations with Iraqi Intelligence agents in Iraq, the Sudan, Afghanistan, and elsewhere. Soon thereafter, Iraqi Intelligence decided to support Al Qaeda and to employ Al Qaeda terrorists willing to carry out Iraq's terror attacks. The Iraq-Al Qaeda relationship benefited Iraq because it provided that state with trained terrorists willing to die in terror attacks. As a secular state, Iraq does not have a large number of citizens wishing to become martyr warriors. In addition, by using Al Qaeda suicide terrorists, Iraq could disavow involvement in attacks and avoid retribution. The relationship benefited Al Qaeda who received support, funding, facilities, and training that it needed to carry out its terror campaigns.

68. During the mid-1990's Iraq began actively supporting Al Qaeda operations by providing intelligence, training, weapons, supplies, passports, travel documents, and financial support to co-conspirators. Significantly, one of Iraq's training camps contained the fuselage of a Boeing 707 used to train Al Qaeda terrorists in hijacking a commercial aircraft. The training camp was established at Salman Pak by members of the Iraqi intelligence service (Mukhabarat), who had contact with some of the September 11th hijackers. The terrorist training camp adjoins a facility at Salman Pak used for chemical weapons development. Al Qaeda members who were at Salman Pak may have also received training in chemical weapons.

69. Al Qaeda, backed by Iraq, Iran and others, carried out the September 11th terror attacks with the financial and logistical support of numerous individuals and organizations. These individuals and organizations provided Al Qaeda with the means to recruit, train, and employ thousands of terrorists, including the twenty assigned to the heinous mission to murder United States citizens and destroy U.S. landmarks on September 11, 2001.

70. This lawsuit seeks to strip the assets of Iraq, Iran, Hezbollah, Al Qaeda, Bin Laden, and those individuals and organizations who participated in or supported the September 11th terror attacks and to recover compensatory and punitive damages for the Plaintiffs. By doing so, Plaintiffs hope to obtain a measure of justice and to deter future acts of terrorism.

The Birth of Al Qaeda

71. Starting in 1989, an international terrorist group emerged dedicated to opposing non-islamic governments with brutal force and terrifying violence. This organization grew out of the “mekhtab al khidernat” (the “Azzam Service Center”) organization which maintained offices in Peshawar, Pakistan, and received funds from Islamic charities, wealthy Saudi families, mosques, legitimate businesses and criminal enterprises, among others.

72. Under the leadership of Defendants Bin Laden, Muhammad Atef, a/k/a “Abu Hafs al Masry,” Sheikh Tasyir Abdullah, Abu Fatima, Abu Khadija, together with “Abu Ubaidah al Banshiri” (Deceased in 1996), Ayman al Zawahiri and others, the Azzam Service Center expanded, created terrorist cells in various parts of the world, including Afghanistan, Pakistan, and the United States, financed and supported other terrorist groups dedicated to committing acts of violence, murder, destruction and mayhem. From approximately 1989 until the present, this terrorist group called itself “Al Qaeda” (“the Base”).

73. At all relevant times, Al Qaeda was led by Bin Laden. Members of Al Qaeda pledged an oath of allegiance (called a “bayat”) to Bin Laden and Al Qaeda, committing them to become martyrs in their depraved cause.

74. Al Qaeda actively and vehemently opposed the United States for several reasons. First, it regarded the United States as a “kafir” or “infidel” nation governed in a manner inconsistent with the group's interpretation of Islam. Second, it believed the United States was providing essential support for other "infidel" nations and organizations, particularly the government of Egypt, Israel, and the United Nations, which Al Qaeda regarded as enemies. Third, Al Qaeda opposed the involvement of the United States armed forces in the Gulf War in 1991 and its presence in Muslim-dominated countries afterwards as illustrated by Operation Restore Hope in Somalia in 1992 and 1993. Al Qaeda viewed these as pretextual preparations for an American occupation of Islamic Countries. In particular, Al Qaeda opposed the continued presence of American Military forces in Saudi Arabia and elsewhere on the Saudi Arabian peninsula following the Gulf War. Fourth, Al Qaeda opposed the United States Government because of the arrest, conviction, and imprisonment of Al Qaeda members or other terrorists, with whom it worked, including the Islamic Group's Sheik Omar Abdel Rahman who was convicted of conspiring to bomb bridges and tunnels in New York City. Fifth, Al Qaeda believed United Nation sanctions against Iraq were orchestrated by the United States out of eagerness to destroy Iraq.

75. One of the Al Qaeda's principal goals was to use violence to drive the United States armed forces out of Saudi Arabia and Somalia. Members of Al Qaeda issued fatwas (rulings on Islamic law) stating that attacks on the United States were both proper and necessary.

76. At least as early as 1991, Bin Laden and Al Qaeda began working closely with Defendant Ayman al Zawahiri, a/k/a "Abdel Muaz," a/k/a Dr. Ayman al Zawahiri," a/k/a "the Doctor," a/k/a "Nur," a/k/a "Ustaz," a/k/a/ "Abu Mohammed," a/k/a "Dr. Mohammed Nur Al-Deen" whose Egyptian Islamic Jihad terrorist group shared Bin Laden and Al Qaeda's goals. Bin Laden had met Zawahiri in Peshawar, Pakistan, in 1987 during the Afghan-Soviet war.

77. From in or about 1987, until in or about December 1997, Ayman al Zawahiri led the Egyptian Islamic Jihad, a group dedicated to the forceful overthrow of the Egyptian Government and committing violence against the United States, in part, for what Zawahiri believed to be the United States support of the Egyptian Government. Members of the Egyptian Islamic Jihad pledged allegiance to al Zawahiri. Many of the leading members of the Egyptian Islamic Jihad ultimately became influential members of Al Qaeda, including Ayman al Zawahiri and Muhammad Atef. By February 1998, the Egyptian Islamic Jihad led by Al Zawahiri had effectively merged with Al Qaeda and had joined with Al Qaeda in targeting United States citizens. In turn, Al Qaeda and the Egyptian Islamic Jihad in February 1998 founded an umbrella terrorist organization called the "International Islamic Front for the Jihad Against Jews and Crusaders." In May 1998, Bin Laden declared a fatwa in the name of the "International Islamic Front for the Jihad against Jews and Crusaders," to "kill the Americans and their allies – civilians and military."

78. Al Qaeda had a command and control structure which included a "majalis al shura" (consultation council) of 10 members that discussed and approved major undertakings, including terrorist operations. Bin Laden, Muhammad Atef, a/k/a "Abu Hafs," Ayman al Zawahiri, Saif al Adel, Mamdouh Mahmud Salim a/k/a/ "Abu Hajer" a/k/a Abu Hajer al Iraqi and Abdullah Ahmed Abdullah, a/k/a "Abu Mohammed el Masry," a/k/a "Saleh," among others, sat on the majalis al shura (or consultation council) of Al Qaeda. Its affiliate, the Egyptian Islamic Jihad, had a Founding Council, on which Ibrahim Eidarous sat.

79. Al Qaeda also maintained a “military committee” which considered and approved “military” matters. Defendant Muhammad Atef sat on the military committee and was one of Bin Laden’s two principal military commanders, together with “Abu Ubaidah al Banshiri,” until his death in May 1996. Muhammad Atef had the principal responsibility for supervising the training of Al Qaeda members. Saif al Adel also served on the military committee reporting to Muhammed Atef. He took over the military committee after Atef’s death.

80. Al Qaeda functioned both on its own and as a conduit for other terrorist organizations in other parts of the World that shared its ideology, such as the Egyptian Islamic Jihad, Ahmed Refai Taha, a/k/a “Abu Yasser al Masri,” and a member of jihad terrorist groups in other countries, including the Sudan, Egypt, Saudi Arabia, Yemen, Somalia, Eritrea, Djibouti, Afghanistan, Pakistan, Bosnia, Croatia, Albania, Algeria, Tunisia, Lebanon, Indonesia, the Philippines, Tajikistan, Azerbaijan, the Kashmiri region of India and the Chechnyan region of Russia. Al Qaeda camps were used to train terrorists to fight in Islamic causes, such as supporting Pakistan in its dispute with India over the province of Kashmir. Al Qaeda maintained terrorist cells and personnel in a number of countries to facilitate its activities, including Kenya, Germany, Tanzania, the United Kingdom, Canada, and the United States.

81. Bin Laden and Al Qaeda also forged alliances with the National Islamic Front in the Sudan and with representatives of the government of Iran, and its associated terrorist group Hezbollah, for the purpose of working together against their perceived common enemies in the West, particularly the United States.

82. At various times from as early as 1989, Bin Laden, and others known and unknown, ran terrorist training “camps and guesthouses” in various areas, including Afghanistan, Iraq, Iran, Pakistan, the Sudan, Somalia, Kenya, Malaysia, Philippines, and Germany for the use of Al Qaeda and its affiliated groups. Mamdouh Mahmud Salim a/k/a Abu Hajer al Iraqi managed some of these training camps and guesthouses in Afghanistan and Pakistan.

83. Since 1991, Bin Laden, Al Qaeda, and many of their co-defendants unlawfully, willfully and knowingly combined, conspired, confederated, and agreed to murder and injure United States citizens throughout the world, including in the United States, and to conceal their activities and methods by, among other things, establishing front companies, providing false identity and travel documents, financing terrorist operations, engaging in coded correspondence, providing false information to the authorities in various countries, and seeking to detect and kill informants.

Iraqi Terrorism

84. Since the early 1990s, Iraq and Iraqi Intelligence have used both Iraqi agents and independent “contractors” to commit terrorist acts against the United States in revenge for Iraq’s Gulf War defeat. Al Qaeda was Iraq’s favorite partner in terror.

85. Upon information and belief, there have been numerous meetings between Iraqi Intelligence agents and high-ranking Al Qaeda terrorists to plan terror attacks. One such meeting occurred in 1992, when Defendant Zawahiri (Egyptian Islamic Jihad leader and Al Qaeda officer) met with Iraqi Intelligence agents in Baghdad, Iraq over several days. An Iraqi serving with the Taliban who fled Afghanistan in the fall of 2001, was captured in Kurdistan and has corroborated this meeting and confirmed that Iraqi contacts with Al Qaeda began in 1992. In fact, Abu Iman al-Maliki, who spied on the Kurds as an Iraqi intelligence officer for 20 years, said that the 1992 meeting not only included Iraqi intelligence officers, but also Defendant Dr. al-Zawahiri, top lieutenant of Bin Laden, who was known to have met with Saddam Hussein.

The 1993 World Trade Center Bombing

86. On February 26, 1993, a bomb was detonated in the World Trade Center underground parking lot, killing six (6) U.S. citizens and injuring close to one thousand (1,000). Iraqi sponsored terrorists planned, financed, executed and carried out that World Trade Center bombing.

87. The 1993 World Trade Center bombing took place on the Friday before the two year anniversary of Iraq's defeat in Kuwait, which was February 28, 1991. The anniversary in 1993 was a Sunday, and few people would have been working at the World Trade Center that day; and Iraq and the terrorists wanted to maximize the number of American casualties.

88. During the initial planning of the World Trade Center bombing, Mahmud Abu Halima (who was later convicted for his role in the bombing), was in regular and frequent contact with his uncle, Kadri Abu Bakr, who lived in Iraq and had been a member of a PLO faction allied with Saddam Hussein. Shortly after these calls, the mastermind of the bombing, Ramzi Ahmed Yousef, on information and belief, an Iraqi Intelligence agent and/or asset and/or associate, traveled to the United States using travel documents forged in Kuwait during the Iraqi occupation of that country in 1991.

89. Ramzi Yousef arrived in New York on September 1, 1992 using an Iraqi passport and requesting asylum. On December 31, 1992, he presented photocopies of passports for Abdul Basit at the Pakistani consulate in New York, claiming to be Basit and requesting replacement of his “lost” passport. The real Basit was a Pakistani citizen who had moved to Kuwait and disappeared during the Iraqi occupation in August 1990. Iraqi Intelligence had access to the Kuwaiti Interior Ministry files and upon information and belief, inserted Yousef’s fingerprints into the file and provided him with photocopies of two older passports from Basit’s file. The Pakistani Consulate, accordingly, provided Yousef a temporary passport, based on the false documents. This provided Yousef with a means to escape the U.S. two days after the World Trade Center bombing. In fleeing the United States after the bombing, Yousef first traveled through Baluchistan, an uncontrolled region of Iran straddling the border of Iran and Pakistan with strong ties to Iraq. By the following year, 1994, Yousef was living in the Philippines. He fled from there, however, after authorities discovered a plan he was working on to bomb United States’ airliners. Yousef fled to Pakistan and was eventually sheltered at an Al Qaeda guesthouse. He was arrested in February 1995 in Pakistan and transported to the U.S. for prosecution and was eventually convicted in the 1993 World Trade Center bombing conspiracy.

90. Abdul Rahaman Yasin, who was born in the United States to Iraqi parents but had been raised in Iraq, was questioned in New York and New Jersey in connection with the World Trade Center bombing, but was released after appearing to cooperate with U.S. officials. He fled the country the next day and traveled to Baghdad, Iraq. U.S. prosecutors later learned that he, along with others, had prior training in bomb making, and had mixed the chemicals and constructed the bomb that was used on the World Trade Center. Iraqi intelligence knew of Yasin's presence in Iraq and provided him with refuge. On August 4, 1993, Yasin was indicted in absentia for the World Trade Center bombing.

91. In June 1994, Yasin was seen in Baghdad by an ABC news correspondent who was told that Yasin worked for the Iraqi government. U.S. law enforcement officials confirmed that fugitive Yasin worked for the Iraqi government. U.S. law enforcement officials confirmed that fugitive Yasin has been sheltered in Iraq, a continuing violation of United Nations Security Council Resolution 687, which makes it unlawful to harbor a suspected terrorist. In June 2002, Yasin was interviewed in Baghdad by Leslie Stahl from CBS. Upon information and belief, Yasin still remains in Iraq.

92. Ramzi Ahmed Yousef, Mohammed Salameh, Nidal Ayyad, Mahmud Abu Halima and Ahmad Mohammed Ajaj were all eventually convicted in the Southern District of New York for the 1993 conspiracy to bomb the World Trade Center.

93. Following his arrest in 1995, Ramzi Yousef told U.S. investigators that his intent was to create an explosion that would cause one of the World Trade Center Towers to fall over onto the other, destroying both and causing massive American casualties. Yousef had also planned to use sodium cyanide to create a toxic cyanide gas cloud throughout the area that would poison those in the building. Fortunately, the sodium cyanide was consumed in the blast and vaporized. Before the Gulf War, Iraq had the largest and most diversified terrorist chemical weapons program in stockpiles of sodium cyanide, and had experience in the late 1980's using chemical weapons against its Kurdish population. Upon information and belief, it was Iraq that supplied Yousef with the sodium cyanide and/or trained him in the use and/or manufacture of chemical weapons.

94. Upon information and belief, Al Qaeda terrorists met and conspired in November, 1995, with Iraqi Intelligence and the Iranian Hezbollah to bomb the Khobar towers complex located in Dhahran, Saudi Arabia. Their plan called for the detonation of a truck bomb outside an apartment complex that was used as a barracks for United States servicemen. The resultant attack on Khobar Towers of June 25, 1996, took the lives of 19 U.S. Servicemen. Fearing further attacks by Bin Laden and Al Qaeda, some Saudi government officials and businessmen agreed to provide financial support to Al Qaeda and began funneling millions of dollars to charities that would then forward the money to Al Qaeda. Some of these charities were Madras schools that preached a form of Islam that is intolerant of non-Muslims and provided new recruits for terrorism.

Bin Laden's Return to Afghanistan

95. In 1996, Bin Laden was asked to leave the Sudan by Sudanese officials pressured by the United States to crack down on terrorism. Bin Laden returned to Afghanistan after the Taliban seized control of most of that country. The number of Al Qaeda members and terrorist training camps in Afghanistan grew rapidly following Bin Laden's return. Al Qaeda actively supported the Taliban and violently suppressed all opposition to the Taliban. Bin Laden and Omar developed a very close relationship.

96. From 1996 until 2001, Bin Laden with the financial and logistical support of Omar and others in the Taliban and Iraq and Iraqi Intelligence, created, supplied and operated at least five training camps in order to create an "Islamic Foreign Legion" capable of attacking their enemies throughout the world. These camps trained men from 15 nations in guerrilla warfare, terrorist activities, rocket warfare, demolition and bombing, including the use of mines, grenades, TNT, nitroglycerine and plastic explosives. Classes were also given in “how to kill a policeman” and “traps, murder, and terrorist moves.”

97. On August 23, 1996, a strengthened Bin Laden issued another fatwa declaring a jihad against Americans present in Muslim lands. The message was disseminated throughout all Al Qaeda cells and associated terrorist groups, such as the Egyptian Islamic Jihad. The London Al Qaeda cell, run by Khalid Al Fawwaz under the name Advice and Reformation Committee, and the Egyptian cell, run by al Zawahiri and Abdel Barry, were used to send the fatwa to Muslims living in the Western World. Wadih El Hage was also used by Bin Laden in order to deliver messages, money and terrorist material to Al Qaeda operatives in the U.S. and U.K.

The Public Merger of Iraqi and Al Qaeda Interests

98. In February 1997, Bin Laden publicly expressed his support for Iraq in its conflict with the United States, stating:

“The hearts of the Muslims are filled with hatred towards the United States of America and the American President for American conduct towards Iraq.”

99. Having decided to carry out acts of terrorism, Saddam Hussein, with the advice and prompting of his son and Iraqi Intelligence chief, the late Qusay Hussein and his other son, the late Uday Hussein, head of an Iraqi Intelligence Subdivision known as the “Fedayeen” and “Al-Qare,” concluded that a campaign of terrorist attacks against the United States, under the banner of Bin Laden and Al Qaeda, was the most effective means of both deflecting U.S. attempts to topple his regime and obtaining Iraqi revenge.

100. Upon information and belief, Iraq agreed to supply arms to Al Qaeda and provide Al Qaeda with access to and training in the use of chemical and biological weapons. Iraq also agreed to instruct Al Qaeda terror trainers at its Salman Pak camp in Baghdad that contained a Boeing 707 used to practice hijacking. Iraq also agreed to supply Al Qaeda terrorists with new identities and passports from Yemen and the United Arab Emirates.

101. In exchange, Al Qaeda agreed to provide protection from political opponents to Iraq and Saddam Hussein, and to commit assassinations and other acts of violence to create instability in regions of Iraq, particularly Kurdistan, to assist the regime of Saddam Hussein. Al Qaeda further agreed to provide trained terrorists, assassins, and martyrs to carry out terror attacks in concert with Iraq against their common enemies, including the United States.

102. On February 22, 1998, Bin Laden, Khalid Al Fawwaz, and Ayman al Zawahiri of the Egyptian Islamic Jihad issued a fatwa published in the Arabic newspaper Al-Quds stating:

“The ruling to kill the Americans and their allies – civilians and military – is an individual duty for every Muslim who can do it in any country in which it is possible to do it...”

103. In their February 22, 1998 fatwa, Bin Laden and Al Qaeda expressly referenced the United States’ “continuing aggression” towards Iraq as one of their reasons for calling on all Muslims to kill Americans “wherever and whenever” they are found:

“The best proof of this is the Americans’ continuing aggression against the Iraqi people using the [Arabian] Peninsula as a staging post, even though all its rulers are against their territories being used to that end, still they are helpless.”

104. The Bin Laden and Al Qaeda fatwa also cited the alleged “great devastation inflicted on the Iraqi people” by the United States, as well as the United States’ alleged “eagerness to destroy Iraq.”

105. Additional fatwas of a similar nature were issued in May 1998 and published in Al-Quds under the banner of the Ulema Union Of Afghanistan. A May 29, 1998 Fatwa issued by Bin Laden called to the use of a nuclear bomb to “terrorize the Jews and Crusaders who were enemies of God.” At the time Bin Laden was seeking to obtain nuclear material from Iraq and others who possessed nuclear material and was in the process of developing nuclear weapons.

106. Between April 25 and May 1, 1998, two of Bin Laden’s senior military commanders, Muhammad Abu-Islam and Abdullah Qassim visited Baghdad for discussions with Saddam Hussein’s son – Qasay Hussein – the “czar” of Iraqi Intelligence.

107. The late Qusay Hussein’s participation in those meetings highlights the importance of the talks in both symbolic and practical terms. Upon information and belief, as a direct result of those meetings, Iraq again made commitments to provide training, intelligence, clandestine Saudi border crossings, financial support and weapons and explosives to Al Qaeda.

108. Iraqi Intelligence officials met with Bin Laden in Afghanistan several more times. A second group of Bin Laden and Al Qaeda operatives from Saudi Arabia were then trained by Iraqi Intelligence in Iraq to smuggle weapons and explosives into Saudi Arabia and other countries, which they later accomplished in an effort to carry out future terrorist acts of violence. A third group of Bin Laden and Al Qaeda operatives received a month of sophisticated guerilla operations training from Iraqi Intelligence officials later in the Summer of 1998.

109. Despite philosophical and religious differences with Saddam Hussein, Bin Laden continually sought to strengthen and reinforce the support he and Al Qaeda received from Iraq.

110. Upon information and belief, documents recently found in the bombed headquarters of the Mukhabarat, Iraq's intelligence service, reveal that an Al Qaeda envoy was invited clandestinely to Baghdad in March 1998. The documents reveal that the purpose of the meeting was to establish a relationship between Baghdad and Al Qaeda based on their mutual hatred of America and Saudi Arabia. The meeting apparently went so well that it ended with arrangements being discussed for Bin Laden to visit Baghdad.

111. In March 1998, Bin Laden had reportedly visited Baghdad for consultations. According to Giovanni DeStafant, an international lawyer visiting Baghdad on business, he encountered Bin Laden in the lobby of the five-star Al-Rashid Hotel in Baghdad. They engaged in light conversation.

112. In mid-July, 1998, Bin Laden sent Dr. Ayaman al-Zawahiri, the Egyptian co-founder of Al Qaeda, to Iraq to meet with senior Iraqi officials, including the Iraqi vice-president Taha Yassin Ramadan. Upon information and belief, the purpose of this meeting was to discuss and plan a joint strategy for a terrorist campaign in the United States. Five months later, the American embassies in Kenya and Tanzania were bombed.

113. Upon information and belief, Iraqi Intelligence officials pledged Iraq's full support and cooperation in exchange for a promise that Bin Laden and Al Qaeda would not incite the Iraqi Muslim Brotherhood inside Iraq to oppose, undermine or attack the regime of Iraqi dictator Saddam Hussein.

114. During the July 1998 visit, Zawahiri toured a potential site for a new headquarters for Bin Laden and Al Qaeda, and went to an Iraqi military base and nuclear and chemical weapons facility near al-Fallujah in Iraq. Upon information and belief, Dr. Zawahiri observed training by Iraqi Intelligence officials of Al Qaeda operatives at the al-Nasiyirah military and chemical weapons facility in Iraq. In recognition of Bin Laden's and Al Qaeda's leadership role in the terrorist war against the United States, Iraqi officials allowed Zawahiri to assume formal command over the al-Nasiyirah training camp in the name of Bin Laden and Al Qaeda.

U.S. Embassy Bombings

115. To demonstrate its commitment to Iraq and its anti-U.S. policies, in the Spring of 1998, Al Qaeda planned terrorist bombing attacks on the U.S. Embassies in Nairobi, Kenya, and Dar Es Salaam, Tanzania. Khalfan Khamis Mohamed, Mustafa Mohamed Fadhil, Mohamed Rashed Daoud Al-'Owali, Sheikh Ahmed Salim Swedan, Fahid Mohamed Aly Msalam and an individual known as Abdulla Azzam were chosen as some of the Al Qaeda terrorists who would conduct the coordinated attacks in Nairobi and Dar Es Salaam.

116. In July and early August 1998, Al Qaeda terrorist Mustafa Mohamed Fadhil, Khalfan Khamis Mohamed, Ahmed Khalfan Ghailini, Fahid Mohammed Ally Msalam, Ahmed the German, Sheikh Ahmed Salim Swedan, Mohamed Sadeek Odeh and Fazul Abdullah Mohammed were stationed in Dar es Salaam where they purchased a 1987 Nissan Atlas truck and outfitted it with oxygen, acetylene tanks, TNT, batteries, detonators, fertilizer and sand bags, creating a massive bomb to be driven into the U.S. Embassy. Odeh, Fazul Adullah Mohammed and others who participated in the bombings had been with Bin Laden since the early 1990s and Bin Laden's days in the Sudan.

117. On July 30, 1998, Iraq warned it would take action unless the United Nations embargo was lifted. Iraq blamed the United States for the United Nations embargo. On August 4, 1998, Iraq refused to cooperate with the United Nations embargo. On August 4, 1998, Iraq refused to cooperate with United Nations weapons inspectors in Iraq and talks for a resolution of the crisis collapsed, causing U.N. inspectors to leave.

118. Three days later, on August 7, 1998, at approximately 10:30 a.m., Fazul, Al-'Owhali and Azzam drove a Toyota Dyna truck (outfitted similarly to a Nissan Atlas truck in Dar Es Salaam) to the U.S. Embassy in Nairobi, Kenya, and detonated a large bomb damaging the Embassy and demolishing a nearby Secretarial College building and Cooperative Bank building, resulting in the more than 213 deaths (12 Americans) and injuries to more than 4,500 people.

119. On August 7, 1998, at approximately 10:40 a.m., ten minutes after the bombing in Kenya, Khalfan Khamis Mohamed and Ahmed the German detonated the Dar Es Salaam bomb in the vicinity of the U.S. Embassy in Dar Es Salaam, Tanzania, severely damaging the Embassy building and resulting in the death of 11 people and injuries to more than 85 people.

120. On August 6, 1998, shortly before the bombing, Eidarous, an Al Qaeda member in London, sent a letter to news organizations in Paris, Doha, Qatar and Dubai, UAE, claiming responsibility for the embassy bombings under the fictitious name Islamic Army for the Liberation of Holy Places.

121. At the trial in New York of some of the Al Qaeda-U.S. Embassy bombers, some of the defendants elicited testimony in their defense that cited the poor living conditions in Iraq. They blamed those conditions on the U.S.-U.N. sanctions, and used it as motivation and explanation for the Al Qaeda attacks on the Embassies.

The 1998 U.S. Air Strikes on Al Qaeda

122. On August 20, 1998, the United States initiated a pre-emptive and retaliatory air strike with cruise missiles on Al Qaeda training camps in Khost, Afghanistan and a factory in Khartoum, Sudan, believed at the time to be a chemical weapons plant used by the Sudanese and Iraqi governments to manufacture weapons for their use and that of Al Qaeda terrorists.

123. On August 20, 1998, President Clinton issued a statement on the air strike:

“Our target was terror...our mission was clear to strike at the network of radical groups affiliated with and funded by Bin Laden, perhaps the preeminent organizer and financier of international terrorism in the world today.”

124. By mid-November, 1998, Saddam Hussein reportedly came to the conclusion (with the advice and prompting of his son and intelligence chief, the late Qusay Hussein) that a campaign of terrorist attacks against the United States, under the banner of Bin Laden and Al Qaeda, was the most effective means of deflecting U.S. attempts to topple his regime.

125. Shortly thereafter, Iraqi intelligence officials reportedly met with Bin Laden in Afghanistan. Bin Laden, Al Qaeda, and Iraq reportedly agreed to join efforts in a detailed, coordinated plan for a protracted terrorist war against the United States. Iraq also reportedly agreed to provide Bin Laden and Al Qaeda with the assistance of an expert in chemical weapons, and Bin Laden reportedly agreed to hunt down Iraqi opposition leaders who cooperated with the United States against Hussein. In furtherance of this agreement, Bin Laden reportedly dispatched four hundred of Al Qaeda's "Afghan" Arabs to Iraq to fight Kurdish dissidents.

126. In December 1998, after a standoff between the U.N. and Iraq and a discovery of weapons violations in Iraq, the United States with U.N. approval, led a coalition of allies in a four-day air strike on Iraq. Iraqi Trade Minister Muhammed Madhi Salah then stated that he expected terrorist activities against the United States to increase as a result of the bombing of Iraq. The Arabic language daily newspaper Al-Quds Al-Arabi a/k/a Al Quds cited the cooperation between Iraq, Bin Laden and Al Qaeda in a late December 1998 editorial which predicted that "President Saddam Hussein, whose country was subjected to a four day air strike, will look for support in taking revenge on the United States and Britain by cooperating with Saudi oppositionist Osama Bin Laden, whom the United States considers to be the most wanted person in the world."

127. The editorial noted that this type of cooperation was already taking place, considering that "Bin Laden was planning on moving to Iraq before the recent strike."

128. Following the December 1998 air strikes on Iraq, Saddam Hussein dispatched Faruq al-Hijazi to Kandahar, Afghanistan in order to meet with Bin Laden and plot their revenge. Al-Hijazi also offered Bin Laden terrorist resources and asylum in Iraq.

129. The late Qusay Hussein had also dispatched representatives to follow-up with Bin Laden and obtained his firm commitment to exact revenge against the United States for the December 1998 bombing campaign. Iraq offered Bin Laden and Al Qaeda an open-ended commitment to joint operations against the United States and its “moderate” Arab allies in exchange for an absolute guarantee that Bin Laden, Al Qaeda and their allies would not attempt to overthrow Saddam Hussein’s regime in Iraq.

130. To demonstrate Iraq’s commitment to Bin Laden and Al Qaeda, Hijazi presented Bin Laden with a pack of blank, official Yemeni passports, supplied to Iraqi Intelligence from their Yemeni contacts. Hijazi’s visit to Khandahar was followed by a contingent of Iraqi Intelligence officials who provided additional training and instruction to Bin Laden and Al Qaeda operatives in Afghanistan.

131. Upon information and belief, Bin Laden, Al Qaeda and Iraq agreed to join efforts in a detailed, coordinated plan for a protracted terrorist war against the United States.

132. “Unit 999” was located at Salman Pak, south of Baghdad. It was here that training would be given to Al Qaeda fighters to use chemical and biological weapons in sabotage operations in Europe and across the United States.

133. In 1998, reports revealed that Saudi and Palestinian dissidents were trained in Iraq at secret camps run by an Iraqi Intelligence group known as Unit 999.

134. A trainer at Unit 999, Abu Mohammad, who had escaped Iraq, confirmed that such training was underway on how to lay bombs and how to use chemical and biological weapons in operations in the Middle East and the West. Unit 999 ran a course for a number of extremist Middle Eastern groups, including Al Qaeda. Mohhamad was recruited into Saddam Fedayeen in 1998 and had his first encounter with Bin Laden fighters that year at Salman Pak.

135. Iraq maintained an advanced chemical and biological weapons program, part of which was located at Salman Pak. Iraq is one of only three countries in the world producing a highly developed weaponized anthrax. Sometime during or after 1998, Iraq agreed to help Bin Laden and Al Qaeda develop a laboratory in Afghanistan designed to produce anthrax.

136. In addition to the al-Nasiriyah and Salman Pak training camps, by January 1999, Bin Laden and Al Qaeda operatives were being trained by Iraqi Intelligence and military officers at other training camps on the outskirts of Baghdad.

137. Those locations were the Nahrawan camp at the old Diyala Bridge, southeast of Baghdad and Tell Aswad Ridhwaniya, northwest of Baghdad. The Mukhabarat (Iraqi Intelligence Agency) runs the training facilities at both locations. Relocation occurred due to publicity surrounding Salman Pak, where kamikaze, explosives, and assassination training included “foreigners” said to be Palestinians and Iranians from the Mujahedin-e Khalq (MEK). Iraq supports the anti-Iranian terrorist group, MEK, to which Ramzi Yousef was connected due to his Iraqi background. Bin Laden also reportedly is being sheltered by the Iranian guerilla fighters of the MEK in the eastern portion of Iran. He and close associates reportedly crossed into Iran using smuggling routes with the help of the MEK, and took refuge in caves said to be more extensive and sophisticated than those of the Tora Bora mountain chain in Afghanistan.

The MEK, who are fighting a war against the Shiite government of Tehran, are minority Sunnis. They maintain good relations with certain Afghan and Pakistani tribes. When the Iranian government cracks down on the group, MEK members take refuge in the Pakistani or Afghani tribal areas.

138. In January 1999, Iraq began reorganizing and mobilizing Iraqi Intelligence front operations throughout Europe in support of Bin Laden and Al Qaeda. Haqi Ismail, believed to be a member of Iraq's Mukhabarat Secret Service, left Iraq to train in an Afghanistan Al Qaeda camp. Ismael was believed to be a liaison between Iraq, the Taliban, and Al Qaeda and was rewarded with a position in the Taliban Foreign Ministry.

Attack on the U.S.S. Cole DDG-67

139. In the spring of 2000, Iraqi Intelligence began planning to attack United States warships in the Persian Gulf in an effort to prompt a United States withdrawal. Iraq sought suicide bombers who would employ small boats packed with explosives to ram United States' warships.

140. On October 12, 2000, Iraqi Intelligence and members of Al Qaeda including Bin Laden, Jamal al-Badawi, Khalid al-Midhar, Mohammed Omar al -Harazi, Walid al Sourori, Fatha Abdul Rahman, Yasser Al-Azzani, Jamal Ba Khorsh, Ahmad Al-Shinni, Raed Hijazi, Jamil Quasim Saeed Mohammed, as well as the two suicide boat bombers Abd Al-Mushin Al-Taifi (deceased) (and a suspect in the August 1998 Embassy bombings) and Hassan Said Awadh Khemeri (deceased) carried out their plan to bomb the U.S.S. Cole by ramming a small boat loaded with explosives into the side of the ship as it was anchored in the harbor at Aden, Yemen, resulting in the deaths of 17 American sailors and injuring an additional 39.

141. The Yemeni government investigation reported that the terrorists behind the attack were Islamic extremists who fought the Soviets in the Afghan war and who were tied to the Egyptian Islamic Jihad and Al Qaeda and who were trained in Afghanistan. Four were arrested in Yemen. Jamil Qaseri Saeed Mohammed was arrested a year later in Pakistan. After his arrest, Al-Badawi admitted that he received his instructions to bomb the U.S.S. Cole from Al Qaeda member Al-Harazi whom he had met during the war in Afghanistan.

Al Qaeda Hijacking of Saudi Airline

142. On October 14, 2000, just two days after the attack on the U.S.S. Cole, two Saudis hijacked a Boeing 777 from Saudi Arabia and it had flown to Baghdad, Iraq. The hijackers were given “asylum” in Iraq. They were extensively interviewed in the Iraqi press and criticized the Saudi government.

143. Upon information and belief, this hijacking was a message between Bin Laden and Iraq intended to demonstrate that Al Qaeda terrorists could seize control of large commercial aircraft that could be used as a weapon in the hands of suicide terrorists, foreshadowing a coordinated attack that was less than a year away.

Iraqi Launch of Terror War

144. On January 22, 2001, the Arab language newspaper Al Watan Al Arabi, reported that Saddam Hussein and his sons had called for an Arab alliance to “launch a global terrorist war against the United States and its allies.” The newspaper characterized Hussein’s statement as calling for an uncompromising campaign and “scorched earth policy.”

145. In May 2001, Al Qaeda operatives in Kurdistan assassinated Franso Hariri, a member of the Kurdish Democratic Party, as part of a deal with Saddam Hussein. The killing of Hariri created instability in the region by damaging relations between the co-leaders of Kurdistan. This benefited the Hussein regime in Iraq.

146. Also in May 2001, Iraqi physician and kidney specialist Dr. Mohammed Khyal was dispatched from Baghdad to Afghanistan for three days to treat Bin Laden's kidney problem, further demonstrating the important relationship between Iraq and Bin Laden less than four months before the single largest terrorist attack in history.

147. During the May 2001 trial of some of the Al Qaeda defendants who bombed the U.S. Embassies in Africa, the defendants expressed sympathy, solidarity, and support for Iraq, and further expressed condemnation of the United States as their motivation for the bombings.

148. On May 29, 2001, Wadih El-Hage, a U.S. citizen believed to be Bin Laden's personal secretary, was convicted in the Southern District of New York, along with Mohamed Sadeek Odeh, Mohammed Rashed Daoud Al-'Owali and Khalfan Khamis Mohamed, for participating in the conspiracy to bomb the United States Embassies in Nairobi and Dar es Salaam in August of 1998. Bin Laden and other Al Qaeda members were indicted but still remain at large.

Iraqi Involvement in the September 11th Attacks

Al Nasiriyah News Article:

149. Iraq knew in advance that Al Qaeda was planning to attack U.S. landmarks and civilians in September 2001 in Washington and New York and supported the planned attacks.

150. Upon information and belief, Iraqi news columnist Naeem Abd Mulhalhal has been connected with Iraqi intelligence since the early 1980s. As such, he has commented on matters of Iraqi political interest for the Al Nasiriyah newspaper, a weekly paper published in the provincial capital city of Al Nasiriyah. On September 1, 2001, he was honored for his “documentation of important events and heroic deeds that proud Iraqis have accomplished” and praised by Saddam Hussein. In addition, Al Nasiriyah contains a military base that is believed to house a chemical weapons storage facility. Iraq had previously denied access to this base to U.N. weapons inspectors. It was visited by Zawahiri as early as 1998 and Al Qaeda terrorists trained there for several years.

151. On July 21, approximately six weeks before the September 11th attacks, Iraqi columnist Mulhalhal reported that Bin Laden was making plans to “demolish the Pentagon after he destroys the White House.”

152. Mulhalhal’s July 21 article further informed that Bin Laden would strike America “on the arm that is already hurting.” Upon information and belief, this references a second Iraqi sponsored attack on the World Trade Center. This interpretation is further bolstered by another reference to New York as “[Bin Laden] will curse the memory of Frank Sinatra every time he hears his songs.” (e.g. “New York, New York”) identifying New York, New York as a target.

153. Mulhalhal further indicated “The wings of a dove and the bullet are all but one in the same in the heart of a believer.” (Emphasis supplied). This appears to be a reference to the use of commercial aircraft as a weapon. The information was reported in an Iraqi newspaper whose editor-in-chief served as secretary to the late Uday Hussein’s Iraqi Syndicate of Journalists. The article expressed Iraqi admiration and support for Bin Laden's plans and its appearance in the newspaper would clearly have to be endorsed by Saddam Hussein himself.

154. All Iraqi news media were strictly controlled and censored by the government of Saddam Hussein and were under the direct oversight of the late Uday Hussein. Various members of Iraqi intelligence worked at and controlled the context of each and every newspaper published inside Iraq.

155. The information contained in Mulhalhal's published statements was known prior to the events of September 11th, as was the fact that Mulhalhal had ties to Iraqi intelligence. His actions and words demonstrated foreknowledge of the planned attacks by Bin Laden and indicated support by Iraqi co-conspirators.

156. Iraq's July 21 public statements also exemplify the Bin Laden pattern of publicly threatening violent strikes against the United States prior to and after committing them. For example, weeks before the August 1998 Al Qaeda attacks on the U.S. embassies in Africa, Bin Laden threatened U.S. civilians and shortly thereafter bombed the embassies in Kenya and Tanzania within minutes of each other, killing 223 civilians.

157. Additionally, after the suicide boat bombing of the U.S.S. Cole in Yemen in October 2000, Bin Laden publicly threatened violence against America while wearing traditional Yemeni clothing including a Yemeni war dagger. Bin Laden sought media attention to taunt the United States and to recruit additional Muslim supporters.

Preparation For September 11th Attacks

158. According to U.S. and foreign intelligence officials, in the Spring of 2000, Iraqi Intelligence agents met with September 11th plot hijackers Zaid Samir Jarrah and Marwan al-Shehhi in Dubai, UAE in order to advance the hijacking of U.S. aircraft to commit terrorist acts. Not long after the meeting, al-Shehhi entered the United States on May 29 and Jarrah entered on June 27 to begin preparations for the attacks.

159. According to Czech intelligence sources, on June 2, 2000, co-conspirator and Defendant Mohammad Atta, a pilot and the operational leader of the September 11th terrorist attacks, traveled to Prague to meet other co-conspirators. The following day, Atta arrived at Newark International Airport in the United States.

160. According to the FBI, from July 2000 through March 2001, Atta, Shehhi, Hanjour, Jarran and Hamzi traveled to the U.S., where they resided and took pilot courses to learn to fly the Boeing 747, 757, 767 and Airbus A320 in furtherance of the Al Qaeda Iraqi conspiracy to hijack U.S. aircraft to commit terrorist acts.

161. Upon information and belief, between April 8-11, 2001, Atta left Florida where he was a flight student, to again meet in Prague with Iraqi Intelligence agent al-Ani. Czech Interior Minister Stanislav Gross confirmed that Atta met with al-Ani in early April 2001 in Prague. Atta returned to Florida and within two weeks opened a Sun Trust Bank account with $100,000 sent through a money changer in the UAE. Later in 2001, al-Ani was expelled from the Czech Republic for espionage activities. Other intelligence reports indicate that al-Ani met with another September 11th hijacker, Khalid al Midhar as well. Atta reportedly also met with the Iraqi ambassador to Turkey and former Iraqi Deputy Intelligence director Farour al-Hijaziin in Prague sometime in early April, 2001.

162. Italian security sources reported that Iraq made use of its embassy in Rome to foster and cultivate Iraq's partnership with Bin Laden and Al Qaeda. Habib Faris Abdullah al-Mamouri, a general in the Iraqi Secret Service, and a member of Iraq's

M-8 Special Operations branch, who was responsible for developing links with Islamist militants in Pakistan and Afghanistan, was stationed in Rome as an “instructor” for children of Iraqi diplomats. Al-Mamouri met with September 11th pilot hijacker Mohammed Atta in Rome, Hamburg, and Prague. Al-Mamouri has not been seen in Rome since July 2001, shortly after he last met with Atta.

163. Al-Mamouri’s meeting with Atta was in keeping with his previous duties at Salman Pak. Al-Hijazihad recommended to Saddam Hussein the appointment of al-Mamouri to head the Special Operations Branch at Salman Pak. Al-Mamouri’s working relationship with al-Hijazihad had been strengthened when they worked together at Salman Pak to devise a new range of terrorist methods. It is here that the plan of controlling a civilian airplane with full fuel tanks by teams of five using items that can be easily carried aboard a plane and using the plane as a guided missile was developed by al-Mamouri and al-Hijazi at Salman Pak, sometime before 1995.

164. At Salman Pak, al-Mamouri was placed in charge of coordinating activities with fundamentalist Islamic movements in Pakistan, Afghanistan, the Persian Gulf Countries and Sudan. This came about after Saddam Hussein had decided to seek links with the Islamic terrorist network after the Gulf War. From 1982 to 1990, al-Mamouri worked for the secret service’s Special Operations Branch at Salman Pak. In 1990, he was put in charge of relations with the various Islamic fundamentalist movements. Until 1996, al-Mamouri then traveled to strengthen his relations with various fundamentalist organizations under the auspices of Section M4, the clandestine division of the Mukhabarat. Saddam Hussein, realizing that he could not defeat the U.S in a conflict, decided to resort to terrorism. He then realized that the simplest and most effective way was to resort to Kamikaze terrorism. He gave instructions to the Mukhabarat to establish contacts with those fundamentalist groups, including the Hamburg cell, thereby making Atta a co-optee of the Iraqi Mukhabarat.

165. Between on or about April 23, 2001 and on or about June 29, 2001, Satam M.A. al-Suqami (Flt. 11), Waleed al Shehri (Flt. 11), Ahmed al Ghamdi (Flt. 175), Majeed Moqued (Flt. 77), Ahmed al Nami (Flt. 93), Hamza al Ghamdi (Flt. 175), Mohald al Shehri (Flt. 175), Wael al Shehri (Flt. 11), Ahmed al Haznawi(Flt. 93), and Fayez Ahmed(Flt. 175), traveled from various points in the world to the United States.

166. The FBI has reported that Atta visited commercial crop dusting aircraft facilities in Florida in March and August of 2001. In the wake of the September 11th attacks, authorities concluded that Atta was investigating the possibility of spraying chemical or biological weapons on U.S. civilians. In July and August 2001, on several occasions several other Middle Eastern men also visited the same crop dusting facility.

167. On July 7, 2001, two members of the Iraqi Mukhabarat, Abu Agab and Abu Wa'el traveled together from Germany to Afghanistan and eventually to Kurdistan. Abu Wa'el trained at Al Qaeda terror camps and became the authority for fundamentalist groups operating in Kurdistan intent on crushing opposition to Saddam Hussein. The Iraqi Mujabarat agent, Abu Wa'el is regarded as the real leader of Arsar al-Islam, a Taliban-style group of radical Islamists with links, including financial, to Osama Bin Laden and Saddam Hussein. Indeed, former Anser al-Islam leader Mallah Krekar, while in detention in Norway, told ABC News that he would bring Abu Wa'el who is in Baghdad to the United States for an interview. Ansar al-Islam reportedly had received more than $600,000 from Bin Laden.

168. The FBI reported that in furtherance of his participation in the hijacking conspiracy, Zacarias Moussoui purchased flight deck videos for the Boeing 747 on June 20, 2001 and took a three day Boeing 747 simulator course in Minneapolis, Minnesota on August 13-15, 2001. He also purchased two knives in Oklahoma City, Oklahoma on August 3, 2001. Moussaoui received approximately $14,000 from Ramzi Bin al-Shibh on August 1-3, 2001.

169. U.S. government officials reported that in the summer of 2001, Fayez Banihammad (Flt. 175), Saeed Al Ghamdi (Flt. 93), Hamza Al Ghamdi (Flt. 175), Waleed al Shehri (Flt. 11), Ziad Jarrah (Flt. 93), Satam Al Suqami (Flt. 11), Mohald al-Shehri (Flt. 175), Ahmed al Ghamdi (Flt. 93) and Ahmed al Hanzawi (Flt. 93) each opened a Florida Sun Trust Bank account with a cash deposit. These and other bank accounts were used by the September 11th hijackers for living expenses, travel, pilot training, weapons, and other incidentals and served as places where Al Qaeda operatives could wire money to support the terrorist conspiracy in the months and weeks leading up to September 11, 2001.

170. On September 9, 2001, Bin Laden and other Al Qaeda members, Omar and other members of the Taliban, carried out their plan to assassinate Ahmad Shah Masood, the military leader of the Afghanistan Northern Alliance opposition forces that had been fighting the Taliban for many years. Al Qaeda terrorists posed as television journalists seeking an interview with Masood. The video camera was armed with explosives and when detonated at the purported interview, killed Ahmad Shah Masood, one of the suicide terrorists and other high ranking members of the Afghanistan Northern Alliance opposition forces.

171. This assassination solidified Bin Laden's asylum and protection in Taliban controlled Afghanistan and cleared the way for Al Qaeda's unprecedented attack on the United States two days later. The Taliban would continue to refuse to surrender Bin Laden or Al Qaeda members to the United States after the September 11th attacks.

Hezbollah and its Leaders

172. Hezbollah receives its principal financing of some $100 million a year and logistical support and training from the government of Iran. This assistance is funneled to Hezbollah through the Iranian Republican Guard (IRGC) and the Ministry of Intelligence and Security (MOIS) with the knowledge of the Iranian Supreme leader Ayatollah Ali Hoseini-Khamenei. In addition, Hezbollah earns tens of millions of dollars a year from the drug trade. To show the closeness of Hezbollah to the Government of Iran, the website for "Hezbollah Party of God" pictures Hezbollah Secretary General Hassan Nasrallah along with the late Iranian Supreme Leader Ayatollah Khomeini and the current Supreme Leader Ayatollah Ali Hoseini-Khamenei. . In 1997, the United States placed the Hezbollah on the State Department terrorist list.

173. Iran, through Hezbollah, has provided direct assistance to groups connected to the Palestinian conflict and, although Shiite, shares many of the goals of Al Qaeda and the International Islamic Front for the Jihad Against Jews and Crusaders. For example, the capture of the Karine A, a vessel loaded with more than 50 tons of high quality arms and explosives, points to the very close cooperation on an official level between Iran and the Palestinian Authority. The assistance came through Iran's primary subcontractor and proxy, Hezbollah.

174. For 18 years, with financial and intelligence support from Iran, Hezbollah fought to end Israel's military occupation of a buffer zone in southern Lebanon. It attacked American targets through suicide attacks in an attempt to drive the United States from the country. In the past 20 years, Hezbollah has killed some 300 Americans overseas, including 241 U.S. Marines in the suicide attack on the U.S. Marine barracks in Beirut in 1983. In a bench trial, U.S. District Judge Royce C. Lamberth concluded that Hezbollah was formed under the auspices of the Iranian government, was completely reliant on Iran in the 1983 attack and assisted Iranian Ministry of Intelligence and Security agents in carrying out the operation.

175. Imad Mughniyeh, who heads the terrorist wing of Hezbollah and Dr. Ayman-Alzawahiri, senior member of Al-Qaeda directed the terrorist attacks on September 11, 2001, according to Israeli intelligence.

176. Defendant Mughniyeh is regarded as being behind the terrorist attack that took more than 300 American lives in Beirut during the 1980s. Mughniyeh also oversaw the kidnapping, torture and death of the CIA Beirut station chief William Buckley and the kidnapping, torture and death of Lt.Col. William Higgins, a Marine officer serving with UN forces in Lebanon. Mughniyeh now is said to reside in Iran and has had significant contact with bin Laden's leadership, including Ayman al-Zawahiri. The September 11, 2001 hijackings show a remarkable similarity to Mughniyeh's methods. According to the U.S. Justice Department, Imad Mughniyeh has close ties to bin Laden. Contacts between Imad Mughniyeh and Osama bin Laden, for example, mainly have occurred through Usbat al-Ansar, a Palestinian Sunni Islamist group operating primarily at the Ein al-Hilweh Palestinian refugee camp in the southern Lebanese port of Sidon and the Nahr al-

Bared camp in northern Lebanon. Usbat al-Ansar received considerable financing during the late 1990s from bin Laden. In addition, dozens of Palestinian refugees in Lebanon were sent to bin Laden's training camps in Afghanistan under the auspices of Usbat al-Ansar.

177. A recent defector, Hamid Reza Zakeri, has linked Iran's Revolutionary Guards and Ministry of Intelligence with Al Qaeda. Zakeri said that Al Qaeda also had contacts with an Iranian elite military unit which has helped terrorists train and plot attacks against Americans. Zakeri said that Al Qaeda leader Ayman Zawahiri maintained close ties with the Islamic Revolutionary Guards Corps (IRGC) – Qods Division, said to be Iran's Islamic shock troops. Zakeri said that Zawahiri is close to Revolutionary Guards deputy commander Brig. General Mohammad Baqer Zolqadr.

178. Zolqadr has ties to other Revolutionary Guards, or IRGC Qods Forces commanders including Ahmad Vahedi and Hossein Mosleh who are the Guards' former commander in Lebanon. The IRGC Qods forces are a special operations unit that conducts terrorist operations abroad. Separate information also reveals that Zawahiri was a frequent guest of Iran's Minister of Intelligence and Security, Ali Fallahian, in addition to Ahmad Vahedi, whose position as commander of Qods forces places him as the head of foreign terrorist operations. Zakeri confirms the relationship of Al Qaeda to Hezbollah dating back to the 1990s. Zakeri said that Mughniyah remained the liaison officer with Zawahiri and other fundamentalist organizations' leaders. Zakeri confirms reports of other informants that there were models of the two towers of the World Trade Center in New York and the Pentagon in Washington. In addition, there were models of the White House and CIA headquarters. Zakeri said that Mughniyah had come to Iran and met with some senior officials and had brought with him a message from Zawahiri. That message said that Al Qaeda needed help to “carry out an extremely serious operation in the Great Satan’s country.” While Iranian officials didn’t want any direct involvement, Zakeri said that the head of his department had asked Mughniyeh to maintain his ties with Zawahiri. Iranian knowledge of the September 11, 2001 terrorist attack coincides with comments made by another Iranian national, Abdolghassem Meshabi who resides in Munich, Germany.

179. Meshabi claims that a friend of his in Tehran with access to intelligence plans in Tehran sent an urgent message on/about 02 September 2001. It warned that Iranian-backed terrorists, interpreted by Meshabi to be members of Hezbollah, planned to hijack commercial airlines with plans to crash them into major U.S. targets. Meshabi said that his friend, who is part of the Iranian intelligence service (MOIS), had told him that the MOIS had received a coded message signifying that an attack was imminent. The coded message read: “Shaitan der artash,” (The U.S.) Satan in flames.” Meshabi said he received a second such message on 05 September 2001. Zakeri maintains that Imad Mughniyeh still is in Iran and believes that he organized escape of dozens of Al Qaeda into Iran. Zakeri’s belief that Mughniyeh is in Iran coincides with separate, independent reports. Zakeri further asserts that Osama bin Laden could have entered Iran with Mughniyeh’s help. This prospect reinforces separate information by knowledgeable sources that bin Laden may have escaped into eastern Iran, a part of Baluchestan under heavy influence from Iraq due to its Sunni influence to offset the Shiite government in Tehran. Zakeri’s linkage of Mughniyeh to Zawahiri reinforces earlier analysis by the Israeli military intelligence service, Aman, that Mughniyeh and Zawahiri directed the suicide attacks against the World Trade Center towers and the Pentagon, while Iraq sponsored the attacks.

180. In addition to Iran's close ties to Hezbollah, an Iraqi intelligence officer, Salah Suleiman who was captured by the Pakistanis near the border with Afghanistan, said that Iraq also had established strong ties with Imad Mughniyeh. This reinforces information from other sources which reveal that Mughniyeh, who is a Palestinian, in his past had been a bodyguard for Yasser Arafat and had lived in Baghdad. According to Israeli intelligence, Israel had put out a warning some six weeks prior to September 11, 2001 that an "unprecedented massive terror attack" was expected. Israeli sources said that one indication was that Mughniyeh met with agents on a secret trip to Germany. Despite the fact that Mughniyeh is known to have been going back and forth to Iran, the Aman believes the operational brains behind the 9-11 attacks were Mughniyeh and Zawahiri. In turn, they probably were financed and received logistical support from both the Iranian and Iraqi intelligence services, as well as financial contributions from Saudi Arabia.

Hezbollah's Relationship with Al Qaeda

181. The relationship between Al Qaeda and the Government of Iran goes back to at least 1992 in Albania when they both supported the Kosovo Liberation Army to fight in the Muslim province of Kosovo in neighboring Serbia. U.S. intelligence has acknowledged bin Laden's al Qaeda link to the KLA and had "both trained and financially supported" the Albanians and that the Kosovo border had been infiltrated by Bosnian, Chechnyn and Afghan mujahedin..." Other information suggests bin Laden's support for KLA from Albania began in 1994, after telling the Albanian government that he headed a Saudi humanitarian agency to help Albania.

182. In a December 18, 2001 statement, J. T. Caruso, then Acting Assistant Director of the Counter-Terrorism Division of the Federal Bureau of Investigation, testified that a witness recounted how the Al Qaeda network had privately declared war on America and was operating both on its own and as an umbrella for other terrorist groups. The FBI witness, who is a former member of bin Laden's Al Qaeda network, recounted that bin Laden and Al Qaeda were seeking to obtain nuclear and chemical weapons and that the organization engaged in sophisticated training. The witness also revealed that Al Qaeda obtained specialized terrorist training from and worked with Iranian government officials and the terrorist group Hezbollah. Considerable information is available to show that there not only was ideological but operational connections between Hezbollah and Al Qaeda. U.S. officials report that they had first detected the alliance of Hezbollah and Al Qaeda in early 2002. In March, envoys from Al Qaeda, Hamas and Hezbollah had met in Lebanon's Bekaa Valley to discuss strategy. The officials said that by April 2002, Hezbollah leaders were meeting with Al Qaeda operatives who had escaped Afghanistan for Iran. In expressing concern over the link, U.S. officials said that the Hezbollah-Al Qaeda links are tactical and involve mid- and low-level operatives from both groups. They add that this cooperation between the two groups mutes years of rivalry between Hezbollah, which is Shiite, and Al Qaeda, which is predominantly Sunni. U.S. officials also believe that the assets and organization of Hezbollah's formidable militant wing will enable a hobbled Al Qaeda network to increase its ability to attack American targets. Although Hezbollah and Al Qaeda have their differences, their alliance shows that they share the goals of crippling the United States, forcing the U.S. military out of the Middle East and Israel out of Palestinian territory. In testimony in the East Africa embassy bombings trial, it was revealed that there were connections between Al Qaeda and the Iranian government, along with an unidentified senior Iranian religious leader and Hezbollah beginning in the early 1990s.

183. Trial transcripts reveal that by 1998, the U.S. Government was aware that on various occasions during the early to mid-1990s, high-ranking Al Qaeda members met with Iranian officials and that Osama bin Laden himself met with the Imad Mughniyeh, leader of the terrorist wing of Hezbollah, to “cooperate against the perceived common enemy,” the United States. Ali Mohammed, bin Laden’s security chief and a former U.S. army intelligence analyst, stated during the guilty plea in the embassy bombings case in October 2000 that “I was aware of certain contacts between al Qaeda and Egyptian Islamic Jihad on one side and Iran and Hezbollah on the other side. I arranged security for a meeting in the Sudan between Mughniyeh, Hezbollah’s chief and bin Laden.

184. Hezbollah provided explosives training for al Qaeda and Egyptian Islamic Jihad. Iran supplied Egyptian Jihad with weapons. Iran also used Hezbollah to supply explosives that were disguised to look like rocks.”Upon information and belief, such disguised explosives were used extensively by Hezbollah against Israeli army patrols in South Lebanon. Mohamed testified that “much of this type of training is actually carried out at a training camp there, in Iran, run by the Iranian Ministry of Information and Security.”

185. A former CIA official has been cited as saying that Al Qaeda relied on experts from Hezbollah to build the shaped charge that badly damaged the U.S.S. Cole in Yemen in October 2000. According to UPI:

“A U.S. government official told (UPI) that the blast was a ‘cone-shaped charge’ tht used ‘moldable high explosives such as SEMTEX H,’ shaped to create a high-speed, high temperature blast wave. During the first state of the blast, the explosion ‘forces all the air out with tremendous force,’ creating a vacuum, but as air rushes back in, it creates another tremendous force that causes further damage. ‘It’s a trademark of bombs made by Hezbollah and raises the question of the involvement of Iran,’ he said. A former CIA official agreed: ‘We have to start looking at Iran’s involvement in the incident. The evidence warrants this.’”

186. Ali Mohammed also stated that Mughniyeh had discussed how Hezbollah had forced the United States out of Beirut by blowing up the Marine barracks. Mohammed added that al Qaeda planned to “use the same method to force the United States out from Saudi Arabia.” Mohammed further testified that Al Qaeda’s method for driving the United States out of the Middle East was to be modeled on the successes of the Lebanese Hezbollah, which implied suicide bombings.

187. Magnus Ranstorp, deputy director of the Centre for the Study of Terrorism and Political Violence at the University of St. Andrews in Scotland, stated that the suspects in the East Africa embassy bombings mentioned individuals who had gone to Lebanon for explosives training from Hezbollah. “The military manuals of Al Qaeda showed innovation in the making of explosives including RDX and C4,” he said, “but there was an admission that some of its members had gone to Lebanon to get that expertise.” Such expertise would have come from the Hezbollah.

188. The meetings between Al Qaeda and an Iranian religious leader took place in Sudan with Mamdouh Mahmud Salim a/k/a Abu Hajar al Iraqi, Osama bin Laden's former financial manager, representing Al Qaeda. The meetings took place at various times between 1992 and 1996, according to trial prosecutors, and the bin Laden meeting with Mughniyeh, held in 1994 took place in the Sudan. Prosecutors further stated that the meetings held "at various times" between 1992 and 1996 were to arrange a tripartite agreement among Al Qaeda, the National Islamic Front of Sudan and elements of the government of Iran "to work together against the United States, Israel and other western countries."

189. U.S. intelligence has stated that Osama bin Laden's operatives had approached Iranian Ministry of Intelligence and Security agents in 1995 and again in 1996, offering to join forces against the United States. Phone records obtained by U.S. officials investigating the 1998 embassy bombings in Kenya and Tanzania reveal that 10 percent of the calls made from the Compact-M satellite phone used by bin Laden and his key lieutenants were to Iran. In its 1998 indictment, the U.S. Justice Department said that bin Laden, working through al Qaeda, forged alliances with government officials in Iran, the National Islamic Front in the Sudan and the Iranian terrorist organization Hezbollah.

Hezbollah's Connection with the International Islamic Front for the Jihad against Jews and Crusaders

190. Al Qaeda, Al-Gamma Al-Islamiyya and the Egyptian Islamic Jihad, formed the International Islamic Front ("The Front") for the Jihad Against Jews and Crusaders in 1988. Among other things, the goal of Al Qaeda and purpose of the Front is support of the Palestinians against Israel, as well as expulsion of non-Muslims from Muslim countries. The Front is a group of some 50 independent terrorist organizations from such countries as Sudan, Egypt, Saudi Arabia, Yemen, Somalia, Eritrea, Djibouti, Afghanistan, Pakistan, Bosnia, Croatia, Albania, Algeria, Tunisia, Lebanon, the Philippines, Tajikistan, Azerbaijan, the Kashmiri region of India and the Chechnyn region of Russia. Those Iranian-supported organizations that belong to the Front include the Gama'a al-Islamiyah, the Egyptian al-Jihad, the Algerian GIA and the Egyptian Islamic Jihad whose leader, Ayman Zawahiri, is the second in command in Al Qaeda. While Muslims of the Iranian Government are Shiites, the organizations which belong to the Front and supported by Iran are Sunni.

191. Among the prominent groups belonging to the Front is the Hezbollah, which is regarded as Iran's proxy army and serves as the chief tool for the implementation of Iran's foreign policy. In turn, Hezbollah is funded, armed and trained by the Iranian Revolutionary Guards. Lebanon's Hezbollah movement was founded by Ali Akbar Mohtashemi, an Iranian Shiite cleric, in the aftermath of the 1982 Israeli invasion of Lebanon. Its purpose is to support the Palestinians in Lebanon and fight against Israeli occupation of Lebanon.

Iranian Provision of Safe Haven to Al Qaeda Fugitives

192. Iran has become a safe haven to senior al Qaeda fugitives. There have also been reports that Iranian Revolutionary Guards assisted al Qaeda commanders in entering Iran from Afghanistan to Iran. In addition to being a transit route, Iran also has allowed Al Qaeda to use the country as a staging area.

193. On February 15, 2002, Turkish police arrested two Palestinians and a Jordanian who entered Turkey illegally from Iran on their way to conduct bombing attacks in Israel. Turkish police said the three had fought for the Taliban, receiving terrorist training from Afghanistan and were members of Beyyiat el-Imam, a group linked to al Qaeda. The terrorists said they were acting on orders from Abu Musaab, whom Israeli intelligence has identified as Abu Musaab Zarqawi. U.S. and Israeli intelligence agencies say that Zarqawi had fled Afghanistan in October 2001 and later turned u n Tehran under the protection of Iranian security forces.

194. Upon information and belief, Zarqawi then left for Iraq where he received medical treatment for one of his legs. He then went to Syria. Zarqawi also is linked with Hezbollah.

195. Although Iran was against the Taliban in Afghanistan prior to U.S. action, that opposition did not translate into opposition to Osama bin Laden or Al Qaeda. Under the watchful surveillance of Iran's military and intelligence services, U.S. intelligence has detected what it describes as a suspected Al Qaeda training camp in a remote area of eastern Iran along the border with Afghanistan. Overhead imagery shows a training camp complete with a terrorist obstacle course and a rifle range, much like those Al Qaeda used in Afghanistan to train for assassinations.

196. For some time, the U.S. Government believes, Iranian officials who control the military and intelligence services are working with Al Qaeda. In April 2002, Defense Secretary Donald Rumsfeld said "there is no question but that Al Qaeda has moved into Iran, out of Iran to the south and dispersed to some other countries." Israeli intelligence also has told U.S. officials that it had strong evidence that Al Qaeda members went through Iran and Iraq to the Bekaa Valley of Lebanon and teamed up with Hezbollah.

197. In a February 6, 2002 Christian Science Monitor article, a Saudi captive, Haji Mohamad Akram, a chef to Osama bin Laden, said in an interview that bin Laden had escaped to Iran following the bombing of Tora Bora in November 2001. The captured Saudi chef further claims that bin Laden had three offers of escape. "One from Iraq, one from Iran, and another from some mafia types... We received a lot of Iranian currency, and the commanders distributed it to the soldier," he said, adding that he received 700,000 rials ($1,400) for personal use.

198. Western intelligence sources also say that Al Qaeda has extended its involvement in the Palestinian areas by transferring a base of operation from Afghanistan to Lebanon and seeking to develop operatives and recruit personnel. On 1 February 2002, the British daily, The Times, reported that a senior al Qaeda operative traveled to Lebanon in January 2002 to discuss the relocation with Hizballah leaders. The operative was identified as a Yemeni national traveling under the alias of Salah Hajir. He reportedly had discussed relocating with Hezbollah in Palestinian camps, particularly Ein al-Hilweh in southern Lebanon.

199. Western intelligence agencies confirm that Syria has allowed between 150 and 200 al Qaeda operatives to settle in Ein el-Hilweh since the start of the U.S. offensive in Afghanistan. These sources report that the group, including senior Al Qaeda commanders, arrived from Afghanistan through Iran and went directly to Lebanon.

200. In August 2002, fighting had erupted when Al Qaeda operatives tried to gain control over the camp. Lebanese officials said that the fighting was initiated by Al Qaeda in the camps, three of whom were killed. There have been at least 19 bombings in Ein al-Hilweh since the end of September 2002. Usbat al-Ansar is seen as the culprit behind the violence.

201. Upon information and belief, Al Qaeda terrorists have escaped to eastern Iran following U.S. action in Afghanistan, in addition to western Pakistan. Both areas are known for a concentration of Sunni Muslims. The area encompasses the region called Baluchestan, with the eastern part of Iran being a haven for Sunni Arabs under heavy influence of Iraq to offset the Shiite regime in Tehran. The Iranian Ministry of Intelligence and Security (MOIS) is aware of the concentration of Al Qaeda terrorists in the region but has taken no action against them. MOIS began to monitor the eastern part of Iran due to the Mujahedin-E-Khalq (MEK), which is anti-Iranian but pro-Iraqi. The MEK has assisted the escape of members of Al Qaeda into Iran. In February 2003, U.S. intelligence agencies reported that Osama bin Laden's oldest son, Saad, is in Iran along with other senior al Qaeda terrorists. Saad bin Laden had been spotted in Iran in January 2003, according to U.S. officials. Saad bin Laden is believed to be a key leader of the Al Qaeda terrorist network since U.S. and allied forces ousted the ruling Taliban militia in Afghanistan. In testimony before the U.S. Senate in February 2003, CIA Director George Tenet said that "we see disturbing signs that al Qaeda has established a presence in both Iran and Iraq."

202. Defense Secretary Donald H. Rumsfeld also said in a Senate hearing in September 2002 that the Iranian government is "currently harboring reasonably large numbers of al Qaeda." The al Qaeda (is) functioning in that country, both transiting and located, and operating, "Secretary Rumsfeld told the Senate Armed Services Committee.

Cooperation among Hezbollah, Al Qaeda, Iran, and Iraq

203. Intelligence officials said Iran's support for terrorists, including al Qaeda, in the past was carried out by agents of the Ministry of Intelligence and Security, and the Islamic Revolutionary Guards Corps Qods Force a/k/a Qods Division a/k/a a/k/a Jerusalem Force. The Defense Intelligence Agency in 2000 uncovered information linking al Qaeda to Iran's government. Such cooperation among Iran, Iraq and the Hezbollah and Al Qaeda terrorist groups they support became publicly apparent in a February 18, 2003 Al-Zaman article in which Uday Hussein, son of deposed Iraqi President Saddam Hussein, conveyed messages to Hezbollah. Adib Sha'ban (also spelled Adeeb Shabaan), trade and press secretary to Uday Hussein, reportedly conveyed messages to leaders of Hezbollah and other influential organizations and figures in Lebanon. In a speech in Beirut in the presence of the Iranian ambassador to Lebanon, Hezbollah Secretary General Shaykh Hasan Nasrallah reportedly had called on the Iraqi opposition groups to reconcile with the Iraqi regime. Uday Hussein urged Hezbollah and other Lebanese leaders to coordinate with party militias and Uday's organization, called the "fedayeen commandos of Saddam" if the United States launched a war against Iraq. Uday reportedly also had invited some of the leaders to a secret meeting in Iraq to discuss cooperation to carry out joint operations against U.S. interests in the world.

204. In addition to Al Qaeda training bases, intelligence reports in August 2002 revealed that Al Qaeda leaders Abu Hafs the Mauritanian and Saif al-Adil were in eastern Iran. The Washington Post reported that the two may have been planning Al Qaeda operations from Iran. This information coincides with reports of Zarqawi also going to Iran but leaving for Iraq and then Syria and possibly to Syrian-controlled territory in Lebanon where Hezbollah operates. This complicated picture mirrors an observation by Zakeri that Iranian Guards' intelligence under Morteza Reza'i had a close connection with Iraq. Zakeri said that Reza'i had established commercial companies to create jobs for the Iranian Republican Guard. He said that these companies started to deal with the Babil Company that had been chaired by Qusay Hussein since the mid-1990s. In addition to smuggling and marketing Iraqi oil, the Iranian companies also smuggled Iraqi dates.

205. In published accounts, Zakeri asserts that smuggling and trade cooperation between the Guards' intelligence and Iraq stopped about a year ago. However, the Guards' intelligence had maintained some ties with Hussein and Iraqi intelligence up until U.S. action against Iraq. In a further indication of Iranian-Iraqi intelligence cooperation, Zakeri said that there was coordination between the two on issues like confining the Kurds and confronting the United States. Zakeri also revealed that the Ansar al-Islam organization in northern Iraq had the support and protection of the Iranian Guards and the Iraqi intelligence services. Separately, it is known that members of Ansar al-Islam went back and forth to Iran and had as one of its leaders Abu Wa'il, whom separate data reveals was an Iraqi intelligence officer in Baghdad assisting Ansar al-Islam.

Iranian Assistance to Other Islamic Terrorist Organizations

206. According to claims made by Albanian authorities and the U.S. Central Intelligence Agency in 1998, Osama bin Laden set up the terrorist network in Albania, a Muslim country, to be used as a springboard for operations in Europe. On March 22, 1998, the Times of London confirms that Bin Laden and the Iranian Revolutionary Guards had “joined forces” by signing a pact on 16 February 1998 in Tehran to consolidate their operations in Albania and Kosovo, hoping “to turn the region into their main base for Islamic armed activity in Europe.”

207. These fighters were bolstered by hundreds of Iranian fighters, called Mujahadeen, who infiltrated from nearby Albania and called themselves the Kosovo Liberation Army. Separate reporting reveals that the Iranian Revolutionary Guard operated from Albania to train KLA members. Iran also used Albania as a base from which it smuggled arms and ammunition to the KLA. According to Ephraim Kam, deputy director of Tel Aviv University’s Jaffee Center for Strategic Studies, “Iran has been active in helping out the Kosovo rebels. Iran sees Kosovo and Albania as containing Moslem communities that require help and Teheran is willing to do it.” In Albania, Iranian and Saudi representatives opened foundations to provide patronage. An Islamic bank was launched in the Albanian capital of Tirana. In Skadar, Iranian agents opened the Society of Ayatollah Khomeini. In the Kosovo town of Prizren, Islamic fundamentalists formed a society funded by the Iranian Culture Center in Belgrade. Selected groups of Albanians were sent to Iran to study that country’s version of militant Islam. Based on U.S. congressional sources, the former Clinton administration was fully aware of Iranian activities in Bosnia and Kosovo, but looked the other way to maintain the 1995 Dayton Accords. One congressional source asserts that the Clinton administration wanted “to keep the lid on the pot at all costs. And if that means that Iran benefits and operates freely in the region,” he added, “so be it. Needless to say, the Europeans have been quite upset by this.”

The Terrorist Attacks on September 11, 2001

208. On September 11, 2001, Defendants Mohammed Atta, Abdul Aziz al-Omari, Wa'il al-Shehri, Waleed al-Shehri, and Satam Al Suqami hijacked American Airlines flight 11 carrying 92 persons, bound from Boston to Los Angeles, and at approximately 8:46 a.m., crashed it into the North Tower (also known as Tower 1) of the World Trade Center in New York.

209. On September 11, 2001, Defendants Marwan al-Shehhi, Fayez Ahmed a/k/a/ "Banihamad Fayez," Ahmed al-Ghamdi, Hamza al-Ghamdi, and Mohaud al-Shehri hijacked United Airlines Flight 175 carrying 65 persons, bound from Boston to Los Angeles, and at approximately 9:02 a.m. crashed it into the South Tower (also known as Tower 2) of the World Trade Center in New York.

210. On September 11, 2001, Defendants Khalid al-Mihdhar, Nawaf al-Hazmi, Hani Hanjour, Salem al-Hazmi and Majed Moqed hijacked American Airlines Flight 77 carrying 64 persons, bound from Virginia to Los Angeles, and at approximately 9:37 AM, crashed it into the Pentagon.

211. On September 11, 2001, Defendants Zihad Jarrah, Ahmed al-Haznawu, Saeed al-Ghamdi, and Ahmed al-Nami hijacked American Airlines flight 93 carrying 45 persons, bound from Newark to San Francisco with the intention of crashing it into a target in Washington, D.C., probably the White House or U.S. Capitol. At approximately 10:10 a.m., because of the heroic intervention of Flight 93's passengers, the aircraft crashed into a field in Shanksville, Pennsylvania.

212. At approximately 9:59 a.m. the South Tower of the World Trade Center (2 World Trade Center) collapsed; at approximately 10:28 a.m. the North Tower of the World Trade Center (1 World Trade Center) collapsed. Defendants intentionally caused the deaths of and injuries to thousands of innocent persons, including Plaintiffs' decedent John Patrick O'Neill, Sr.

213. The hijackings referenced above were the culmination of a conspiracy among the defendants to attack the United States and murder United States citizens and to disrupt economic activities within the United States and of the victims of the attacks.

AFTERMATH OF SEPTEMBER 11th

214. On two videotapes made by Al Qaeda in September and October 2001, Bin Laden took credit for the September 11th attacks and stated that the attacks went better than expected.

215. Saddam Hussein is the only national leader who publicly praised the attacks and said that the United States of America deserved them. Iraq has offered sanctuary to Bin Laden and Taliban leaders. Abu Zeinab al-Quarairy, an Iraqi defector who was an officer in the Mukhabarat and was familiar with its operations, reported that when he learned about the World Trade Center attacks on September 11th, he turned to a friend and said "That's ours."

216. Upon information and belief, several hundred Al Qaeda members, including Abu Abdul Rahman, fled Afghanistan for Kurdistan in Iraq to try to take control of towns not under the control of Saddam Hussein and Iraq, including Halabja, Tawela, and Biyarah. On September 23, 2001, Kurdish forces ousted Ansar al-Islam from Halabja, but the Islamic fundamentalist group remained in control of Tawela and Biyarah.

217. Israeli intelligence sources verify that for the past two years, Iraqi Intelligence officers have been shuttling back and forth between Baghdad and Afghanistan. According to the Israelis, one of these Iraqi Intelligence officers, Salah Suleiman, was captured in October 2001 by Pakistani officials near the border between Pakistan and Afghanistan.

218. The British Government has also identified at least two individuals who are Iraqi Intelligence officers trained in Iraq in the use of terror against the Kurds in Northern Iraq. They are Fowzi Saad al-Obeijdi, a/k/a Abu Zubair and Abu Omer al-Kurdi, a/k/a Rafid Fatah. Although they are Iraqi Intelligence officers still linked to the former Hussein Iraqi government, they are also Al Qaeda operatives. In its published dossier to show Iraq's links to Osama Bin Laden, the British government added that Iraq had allowed al-Qaeda and Bin Laden to train in Iraq.

219. In March 2002, U.S. and allied forces discovered a laboratory near Khandahar, Afghanistan that was designed to produce weapons-grade anthrax. Upon information and belief, Iraqi Intelligence were supplying technology, materials, and training to develop this facility in coordination with Al Qaeda and the Taliban. Instruction documents on an artillery weapon known as the "Super Gun" were found in Al Qaeda camps when they were captured by U.S. forces in the winter of 2001-2002. Iraq is the only state known to have purchased and assembled the Super Gun, a weapon so large it must be constructed in segments. It has a range of several hundred miles. U.S. Government officials, including the U.S. Defense Secretary, confirm the relationship between Al Qaeda and the Iraqi regime. The Secretary of Defense as recently as March

2003 stated that there is “solid evidence” that senior Al Qaeda operatives have visited Baghdad and that the intelligence on these activities is “current.”

He was on a New York-bound commuter train from New Jersey, when a fellow passenger told him that a plane had just struck the World Trade Center. Plaintiff John Patrick O'Neill, Jr. reached his father by cell phone at 9:17 A.M., and confirmed that the Center had been attacked and that his father was alive and well. When the commuter train got nearer to Manhattan, John Patrick O'Neill Jr. could see the smoke billowing from the World Trade Center site. John Patrick O'Neill, Jr. arrived at Penn Station, and immediately ran downtown towards the World Trade Center. From there he witnessed the collapse of the second tower. John Patrick O'Neill, Jr. repeatedly tried to call his father's cell phone number, and could not get through. When he finally did get through, he only reached his father's voicemail. He would have been inside his father's office and become a casualty himself had he taken an earlier train.

She subsequently watched the second plane hit the World Trade Center, and then both Towers collapsing. She knew that her only son was in one of the two Towers, and was fearful for his life.
